Get to know PowerObjects consultant and why he thinks Microsoft CRM is so important.

Doug Greiner

Doug started at PowerObjects in April 2008 and has established himself as a valuable member of the team. Doug was exposed to computers at a young age and always was tinkering with them and wondering what made them work. In High School Doug enjoyed writing programs for his TI 82 calculator, and decided he would like to pursue a career in computer programming. He liked that the work could be complicated and the sense of accomplishment gained when a project is completed. Doug graduated from Metropolitan State University with a degree in Management Information Systems in April 2008.

After starting at PowerObjects, Doug enrolled in a special Microsoft Dynamics CRM training class at ING in Edina. There he learned basic CRM customizations and configurations to help him prepare for the CRM Exams and his work in the field. Doug has recently passed all three of the Microsoft Dynamics CRM certification tests and is a Microsoft Certified Business Solutions Specialist.

Currently Doug is working on a project for a medical device testing company. Doug enjoys working on this project because it has created a lot of new learning opportunities. He is able to work on many new aspects of CRM such as using new reports and ASPX page. With a tight deadline and demanding work Doug says it is a great project to work on.

When asked about Microsoft Dynamics CRM Doug stated, "Microsoft CRM provides for a more collaborative work environment and allows management to make informed decisions based on rapidly changing market conditions." He also likes that Microsoft Dynamics CRM can be customized to fit any business and relationship needs to make it as efficient and effective for the user.

Doug enjoys working at PowerObjects because the work can be difficult and he is always learning new things. He likes that the management team has created a great team environment to work in.

“Microsoft CRM provides for a more collaborative work environment and allows management to make informed decisions based on rapidly changing market conditions.”
